Prison Farm's Sewerage System Set First Tests Conducted On Thursday

Sewerage facilities at Glades State Prison Farm went into operation April 28 under a limited test when B. A. Roemer, construction Co. continued on a second contractual agreement to extend sewerage facilities to the residential section of the farm, according to Superintendent D. R. Large.

The operation marks the first time a state institution has ever used the facilities of a municipality. Under the contract of operation, the state pays a flat rate of $25 per month for the first two million, 500 thousand gallons of water which passes through the plant from the prison, and a graduated rate from 17 to 13 cents per thousand gallons up to seven million gallons per month, then 13 cents per thousand gallons over that point.

Belle Glade's Sewerage Treatment Plant Operator James F. Moon said this week that the flow averaged 150,000 gallons per day prior to the April 28 hook-up of the farm and that an additional 93,000 gallons per day average increase was noted when the prison plant began operation.

The 93,000-gallon flow was realized from line washing and testing and the total plant flow will probably double to nearer 300,000 gallons-per-day when the remaining funds will be used to connect to the canning plant, laundry and other buildings in the prison system.

Complete information will be available after the system has been tested.

This week you went to the voting booths and registered your opinions on the state of candidates. We assume you used judgment about whom you thought could do the best job in the particular office. You considered qualifications and records of service. But the final deciding factor in your mind that caused your fingers to select one lever instead of the one next to it was the answer to the question: "What can this candidate directly or indirectly do for me?"

Since you selected a candidate who best fitted your idea of service to our area, so should you consider and select the merchants and business people who could do the most for you. You should choose your local merchant, for eventually this means less wear and tear on the purse string . . . your purse string.

Baldwin, Supervisor of Schools in Palm Beach County.

The first evening of the above named schools got a deal of enjoyment as well as experience in putting together the information given by our supervisors.

It was very gratifying that two principals, Mrs. Elmo Fitzerald and Mr. St. Elmo A. Greux, gave valuable assistance in helping teachers to understand the use of the materials and the services rendered by the custodial staff. Let us forget, please, the thanks must go to Mr. David Hill for the very fine pictures made of the group.

A tricking grounder to the third baseman was thrown to first on a fielder's choice, and the first baseman's throw was the plate at the second run scored for Lake Shore.

Greenacres School Principal Says: "Board Of Education Efficacious"

As a school principal, Edward Eisey, pointed out to Rotarians Friday that "The most difficult of teenagers have to-day is learning good conduct without seeing any" in discussing parents' responsibilities.

Further, the pedagogist said "The mature parent is one who neither 'savage' rejects, nor thoughtlessly initiates the child-rearing practices of his parents" the mature parent takes all responsibility for setting standards and controls his children."

"Our generation has learned, at great cost, that passively permitting children to express all their aggression does not produce a world we want to live in, nor does it produce the type of children we want in our society."

"The trouble with present-day manners and morals is that children who used to learn at their mother's knees are now learning at other 'joints'."

"Now, we don't have to be right all the time. Your child wants a man for a father, not a formula. He wants a woman for a mother, not a theory."

"Nor does children want parents as equals; they want adult parents, with good sense, with a sense of justice and conviction, with the time and willingness to advise them with their problems. They want real parents who will praise them when they deserve it and who will apply the 'Board of Education' to the 'Seat of Knowledge' when necessary."

It was a delightful program enjoyed by all present.

Pahokee Seventh Grade Wins Banner 140 At Glades Girl Scout Camporee

Eighty-one Girls Scouts and nine leaders pitched their tents on the Pahokee dike for the First Glades Girl Scout Camporee and the first in the Palm-Glades Council.

Campfire was started with an Indian Ceremony by Pahokee Senior Troop. Because of rain everyone went to the Methodist Church social hall for the evening program led by eight Girl Scouts of West Palm Beach and two of their leaders who attended the Roundup in Colorado last summer. They told of their wonderful experience and had a display of articles. Many local girls hope to attend the 1952 Round-Up. Singing and skits were enjoyed by all and then the girls went back to their tents.

Regardless of the weather, the schedule set up ran smoothly throughout the whole camporee. This proved the right training, correct personal equipment, correct troop equipment and wonderful girl scout spirit present.

In each troop campsite there was posted the menus and paper charts. With these the cooks prepared each meal with real efficiency with the help of the fire builders, hostess, and cleanup committee.

Saturday morning, skill tests and instruction on firebuilding, knot tying, lashing, compass and first aid were given by Mrs. Mina Holden, District director and Miss Jane Towater, executive director.

Special Concern Due For Certain Elements Of Our Population

Without doubt, the kind and amount of education young persons receive affect their life-time careers. In general, those with more schooling have higher earnings. Moreover, unemployment is much higher among those with the least education. Of those unemployed in 1949, over 85% of them had less than high school education. Five percent had high school education and less than three percent had some college.

Older Workers
During the 60's two of five workers will be 45 years or older. By 1970, 33 million men and women 45 years or older will belong to the labor force; 5.5 million more than in 1960. Older workers have the skill work experience for our growing economy. They now account for a significant proportion of our managerial and skilled workers. Older workers do not experience a markedly different rate of unemployment than do workers in other age groups; however, once out of work, they remain unemployed for longer periods of time.

These facts point to the need to eliminate discrimination in hiring on the basis of age and also the need for training and retraining of older persons to help them to keep up to date.

need the kind of education and guidance that will help them adjust to work and to compete for the better jobs in nonfarm wide employers with a flexible manpower supply; however, other industries as well as trade and service will have to re-schedule more of their jobs to a part-time basis if this large supply of workers is to be used effectively.

Farm Workers
The number of persons living on farms has decreased substantially over the years. The movement of farm people to urban areas has been one of the major trends of this century.

The picture reflects in part the continuing reduction in farm manpower requirements. Young people are leaving the farm in greater proportion than any other age group. They will responsibilities. The increase in the number of part-time workers will provide the better jobs in nonfarm wide employers with a flexible manpower supply; however, other industries as well as trade and service will have to re-schedule more of their jobs to a part-time basis if this large supply of workers is to be used effectively.

Part-Time Workers
More people will choose to work part time. Sixteen million persons will be part-time workers in 1970, a 30% increase from 1960. There will be a large increase in the number of persons able and willing to work only part time.

This will occur because most of the labor force growth will be among young people, many of whom will still be in school, and among adult women, many of whom will still have home

Florida-Made Fiber Will Be Used For Socks Now

A Florida-made textile fiber, American Cyanamid Company's new Creslan, will become an important factor in the men's hosiery field, members of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers were told recently.

Introduced last fall, the fiber will be seen shortly in men's hosiery and women's and children's socks. S. G. Pittney of Cyanamid's Fibers Divisions asserted in a talk at the group's convention in the Americana Hotel.

The new fiber offers a softer texture, better durability and a quality control program which assures the consumer of higher standards of performance, Mr. Pittney stated.

Produced at a modern plant in Santa Rosa County, near Pensacola, the new fiber is finding steadily broadening markets in all types of apparel and home furnishings fashions, Mr. Pittney declared.

Troop 621 Spends Exciting Weekend

Troop 621 Boy Scouts, sponsored by the Everglades Presbyterian Church, spent an exciting weekend on Fishing Creek near Palmdale.

Considerable experience was gained combating hungry hogs and mosquitoes and to further test camping skills, a heavy rain Saturday night drenched the area.

The most popular activities during the trip were swimming, fishing and hog chasing. Those attending were Scout Masters R. H. Lewis, C. E. Haines, and F. H. Thomas. Scouts were Martin Felding, George Towell, Jim Walker, Glenn Wolf, David Johns, Victor Riedel, of the Woodman's Patrol, Bobby Kunkel, Jim Ludlow, and Jay Uhrig of the Cobra Patrol and Eddie Haines, John Bamford, Danny Lanier, Larry Kessler, Gene Hollingsworth and Jeff Altman of the Gator Patrol.

Luck At Sailfishing

Two Belle Glade anglers had the thrill of catching and releasing sailfish while fishing aboard the "Spray II" with Captain Ray Young recently, according to information received from the Stuart Sailfish Club.

Clifford Lance, 417 S. E. 3rd St., caught a seven-footer, while James Powers, Belle Glade, angled a six-footer from the same boat.

Den 9 Completes Maps, Scrapbooks

Wednesday afternoon the Cub Scouts of Den No. 9 met at the home of Mrs. T. G. Mayo. Some of the boys made maps and some scrap books of the five Breat Lakes and others reported on individual boat projects.

The boats, maps and scrapbooks were on display Thursday night at the pack meeting which closed the month of April theme about the Great Lakes.

Your Library

"The Public Library," says President Eisenhower "symbolizes educational opportunity in America but the degree to which library services are supported by the local community is highly indicative of the aspirations of the citizens who live there. Increasingly, Americans are becoming aware that support for their public libraries falls far short of fulfilling these aspirations."

This week Mrs. Clemons has selected several fiction books readers are certain to enjoy. Rogue's March by Marjorie Chapman, author of "Happy Mountain" enormously popular book of some years ago, brings all her talents to bear in this historical novel of love and war in the fall of the year 1780. Near the point where Tennessee, the Carolinas and Georgia come together, was fought the Battle of King's Mountain, in which were involved some of the best publicized, most important personalities in American Revolutionary history.

Tammy Tell Me True: Cid Ricketts Summer, author of quality, has many gifts. She knows people, she knows the speech and follows the rural South and she is a wonderful story teller. In this book she brings us cheer and restores our sense of anticipation for what lies around the next turn. No-body who has met Tammy has ever forgotten her, we mean, of course Miss Tammye Thre, that charming and completely irresistible combination of naïveté and down-to-earth wisdom. The chapters dealing with Tammy's first viewing of television, is alone well worth reading for its self. A most amusing book.

The Wealth and the Wind: by Alexander Key is a book of intense action and dramatic suspense. It is as cruel as sin, as brutal as the plague, as solacing as late found love and forgiveness. The story is laid in the twin ports of Apalachicola and St. Joseph on the Gulf coast and not unjustly known as Sodom and Gomorrah. The Author who lives at Tarpon Springs has the gulf coast and sea in his blood and in his writing of the swamps and the beaches creates an unforgettable atmosphere.

Pictures, Books Gifts To Library

Four lovely watercolor paintings including hibiscus, pansies, water lilies and violets have been made and donated, in natural wood frames by Mrs. Harvey Hogan of Belle Glade to the Belle Glade Public Library.

Mrs. Bettie Harris, librarian, and the Library Board appreciate the gift, which adds interest and color to the Library walls. Another recent gift appreciated is a number of books from Mrs. William Wall.

On City's Newest Street

Work began last week on the construction of Belle Glade's newest street, N. W. Ave. K, a stretch of street about 250 feet running west from N. W. 1st St., according to City Clerk Frank Anderson.

Anderson said he assumed the street would eventually connect with an extension of N. W. 4th St.; however, only about a half dozen homes will be built along this first portion of the street.

According to reports, John Levine of N. W. 16th St., was fined $100 and costs after his plea of guilty to reckless driving, causing and accident and leaving the scene of an accident in connection with the Tilton incident.

Tilton said he gave chase to the car which struck him; gave up and reported to police. Sergeant Art Falden later discovered the car in a Belle Glade service station.

Automobile chrome decoration and clips found at the scene of the accident matched Levine's auto. He allegedly admitted the incident to police.
